Faith, intellect, and virtue are not just words to the members of the Immacolata community. They represent the foundation of our core beliefs. From the time you and your child join us, together you will witness how Immacolata Catholic School exemplifies these values.

Our Catholic faith is central to everything we do at Immacolata. We have a duty, therefore, to ensure that day in and day out we teach and exemplify what God asks of each of us—to love and serve Him and one another. As a community we continually help our students to deepen their relationship with God.

Immacolata is focused on each student reaching their full intellectual potential. We deliver an exceptional educational experience including a challenging curriculum promoting critical thinking and continued character development. As our graduates leave Immacolata, they are confident and prepared for a challenging high school curriculum and their new life opportunities.

For the Immacolata community, virtue is all about how we lead our lives. We teach our students how to develop a strong work ethic, how to treat one another, and how to balance their school, family and social lives. We instill in all students a confidence in their abilities, with an understanding of the need to share the gifts God has given them with others in need.

Developing Critical Thinkers

A traditional Catholic liberal arts education stresses the formation of a curious and critical thinker with broad interests and capabilities. Immacolata offers a curriculum stressing religion, reading, mathematics, science, and the development of strong spelling, grammar, and writing, in addition to the appreciation of art and literature. As students progress, we promote the application of logic in all academic subjects and ensure that our students are able to communicate well through all media.

Kindness and Encouragement Guide Us

Along with the fundamentals of learning, we nurture each and every student to become a person whose life is guided by their faith and values. We encourage and enable our students to make decisions that are reflective of strong personal character.

As your children continue their journey beyond Immacolata, we are confident their experience with us has prepared them to achieve happiness through a life with purpose and success.

I definitely think that Immacolata prepared me for high school. I felt like I had a basic understanding of the material freshman year. Even if the transition to high school was a challenge, I still felt very comfortable with myself, not only academically but also socially. Immacolata allowed me to go off to high school with a growing confidence in myself because of the education I was given.

Claire Moore, Class of 2008

I would wholeheartedly recommend Immacolata to other families. The academic rigor and supportive community are unparalleled. I would not have experienced a fraction of the personal or academic success that I have without my preparation from Immacolata.
